EIGHT DAYS OF HOPE WILL EXTEND OUTREACH TO FORT MYERS, FLORIDA

Tupelo, MS – Eight Days of Hope (EDOH) announces an extension to their current outreach, responding to those in need after Hurricane Ian hit in September. Their team has been providing repairs which include tarping roofs, gutting homes, and cutting down damaged trees.

The extension will be from October 31st to November 12th, they will be serving the city of Fort Myers. Volunteers may sign up on their website at www.eightdaysofhope.com.

“Volunteers have traveled across the country to help those during a major time of need,” stated EDOH President and Founder, Steve Tybor, “And there’s so much more to be done. We are grateful for the response as we seek to help families throughout the state.”

Hurricane Ian was ranked a Category 4 storm as it traveled across Florida. Its 155+ mile per hour winds left homes and businesses damaged and ten feet of flood waters in many areas. The hardest hit area being Fort Myers, Florida.

“We are here to love and serve the most vulnerable. We are thankful to extend our efforts to help more people in their time of need, and most importantly, to share hope that will withstand what wind and water can take away,” shared Steve Tybor.
