EIGHT DAYS OF HOPE PARTNERS WITH PARKGATE PREGNANCY CLINIC TO BUILD NEW FACILITY IN MISSISSIPPI

Tupelo, MS – Eight Days of Hope (EDOH) announced a partnership with Parkgate Pregnancy Clinic in Tupelo, Mississippi, to build a new facility to help women with unplanned pregnancies.

“The ‘Shaping Futures’ vision is all about discipleship. We believe discipleship happens best in the context of relationships; therefore, we at Parkgate are committed to building relationships with our clients through intentional and continual points of connection throughout their pregnancy and long after baby is born,” shared Andrea Powell, Executive Director of Parkgate, “This new building, along with the repurposing of our current facility, will help us realize this vision and deepen our impact in the community for generations to come.”

Eight Days of Hope will bring skilled volunteers from across the country and partner with local contractors and businesses to build a 7,000 square foot clinic. The expansion will allow Parkgate to have more space for counseling, ultrasounds, educational programs, and stronger support for moms before and after birth.

“EDOH is grateful to come alongside Parkgate to create a space for moms to become mothers,” shared Steve Tybor III, EDOH President & CEO, “With our skilled volunteer base we are humbled to use our gifts to partner with another ministry in Northeast Mississippi in a life changing way.”

Parkgate anticipates a groundbreaking in the fall of this year.
