EIGHT DAYS OF HOPE DEPLOYS MASS FEEDING ARM AFTER TORNADOES IN SOUTH MISSISSIPPI

Tupelo, MS– Eight Days of Hope (EDOH) is deploying their Mass Feeding arm to Brookhaven, MS, following the devastating tornadoes on May 6. For one week, their team will be providing hot meals to those impacted, local law enforcement, volunteers, and more.

“To step into a community that has been devastated like this and bring a smile and a warm meal for free says something powerful to those we serve,” shared Chandler Gurley, EDOH VP of Operations, “It says that we are with them... that we are willing to embrace anything the storm has brought their way, and support them when they need it most. That’s what it’s all about.”

Volunteering is not currently available. To learn more, visit eightdaysofhope.com.
