EIGHT DAYS OF HOPE EXTENDS HURRICANE ISAIAS RESPONSE IN PENSACOLA THROUGH NOVEMBER 7

Tupelo, MS — Eight Days of Hope (EDOH) is extending its Rapid Response outreach in Pensacola, FL, through November 7 as they continue serving families impacted by Hurricane Isaias.

Since beginning its response last Friday, EDOH's Rapid Response team has connected with families throughout the community, offering encouragement and tangible support. With continued needs across the area, the organization is extending its stay to serve more homeowners and families affected by the storm.

"We know there are still families in Pensacola who need someone to come alongside them, and we don't want to leave while there's still more we can do," shared Dustin Sullivan, EDOH Rapid Response Director. "We're extending our response through November 7 so we can continue serving these families, reminding them they aren't alone, and showing them the love of Jesus when they need it most."

During the extended response, volunteers will continue tarping roofs, clearing debris, cutting dangerous trees, cleaning inside soiled and wet homes, and providing additional assistance as needed.

“When a community is impacted by disaster, the needs often extend far beyond the first few days,” explained Chandler Gurley, EDOH Vice President. “Extending our response allows us to bring more volunteers alongside Northwest Florida and continue serving families whose lives have been turned upside down by Hurricane Isaias. We’re thankful for the opportunity to keep showing up for Pensacola.”

Food and lodging are provided for out-of-town volunteers. Those interested in volunteering or learning more about the Pensacola response can visit eightdaysofhope.com/events/pensacola-fl.
